Guatemala Property Evaluation Right

Pursuant to an agreement signed in 2020, Volcanic was granted by Radius Gold Inc. (TSXV:RDU) (“Radius”) an option to earn an interest in Radius’s Holly and Banderas Projects located in Guatemala, and the exclusive right to evaluate (the “Evaluation Right”) until September 1, 2022 the other property interests of Radius in eastern Guatemala and to enter into an agreement with Radius to acquire an interest in any of such other properties on reasonable mutually agreed upon terms.

Pursuant to the Evaluation Right, Volcanic is in the process of conducting evaluation work on certain of Radius’s Guatemala properties and, subject to TSXV Venture Exchange approval, Radius has agreed to an extension of the Evaluation Right by one year to September 1, 2023. No additional consideration, including exploration work requirements, is payable by Volcanic with respect to the Evaluation Right extension.

As Volcanic and Radius have a common director and two common officers, Radius is a “non-arm’s length party” to Volcanic within the meaning of TSX Venture Exchange Policy 5.9. The extension of the Evaluation Right is not, however, a “related party transaction” as defined in Multilateral Instrument 61-101,

Protection of Minority Security Holders in Special Transactions (“MI 61-101”) and therefore the requirements of the Exchange’s Policy 5.9 and MI 61-101 do not apply.
